

Jill Thompson <jill@cowichanwatershedboard.ca>

NatureKidsBC opportunity to share!

Katia Bannister <bannister.katia@gmail.com>
To: Jill Thompson <jill@cowichanwatershedboard.ca>

22 July 2023 at 08:20

Hi Jill,

Hope you are doing well and having a fantastic summer! What is the Watershed Board up to these days?

Just wanted to share an initiative with you. Thought maybe it would pique the interest of some friends of the Cowichan Watershed Board!

I am a youth advisor for NatureKidsBC and past recipient of their Joseph Lin Scholarship. At the moment, I am helping them spread the word about their new iNat project! They want to encourage families (and everyone else) to get outside, learn about ecology, spend time in nature, and contribute to community science with the help of iNaturalist.

To incentivize participation in their project, they are holding a prize draw! Anyone who joins the project before August 31st can be entered to win a $150 Canadian Tire gift card, a set of ID cards, some NatureKidsBC merch, and a few more goodies!

If you are interested, here is a little more info about the project. I've also attached a poster for you to take a peek at and pass on to anyone you know who might be interested.

Let me know if you have any q's!

In community,

Katia

--

Katia Bannister (she/her)

Coordinator | University of Victoria Sustainability Project

Executive | UVic Ecological Restoration Club | UVic Whitewater Club

e: bannister.katia@gmail.com p: (250) 246-0216 i: @katiabannister

Living in Victoria, on the unceded territories of the Lək̓ʷəŋən speaking peoples and their descendants — now known as the Songhees and Esquimalt — and the SENĆOŦEN speaking WSÁNEĆ peoples, all of whom have historical relationships with the land that continue to this day.

 NatureKidsBC iNat Poster.pdf
900K